BURGLARS FAIL IN AN ATTEMPT

They Try to Make Haul at Home of Mr. and Mrs. Harrie Jones in North Perkins Street.

WERE HEARD BY MR. JONES

Police Called and All Clews Were Detected But to no Avail—Mr. Jones Shoots at Intruder.

"Dame Rumor" made almost an instantaneous trip to Rushville homes last night, spreading in some the fiction of a burglar being shot to the heart by Harrie Jones, in others the fairy story that Mr. Jones had shot and injured a burglar, while in others the truth was told by the ever present and traveling "Dame" that went to the effect that Mr. Jones had shot twice at a would be burglar, who successfully made his escape.

Mr. Jones was called out on his back porch at his home in North Perkins street by duties and on the tin roof above he heard footsteps. He immediately retreated into the house informed his wife and the maid to keep up a steady conversation as he had heard a man on the back roof and that he wished to catch him. The family revolver was taken with a beating heart from the archives of the home and sure capture seemed imminent. Mr. Jones went to the kitchen and was informed by his wife that she had heard a whistle and then a hasty retreat across the entire length of the porch. He then went through the front part of the house, out of the front door and back into the vicinity of the real scene of action. After a careful survey of the roof and the immediate vicinity, which disclosed nothing, a more general look was taken by him.

He saw a man slowly walking near Dr. W. C. Smith's automobile barn which is at the rear of Dr. Smith's home in East Sixth street. Mr. Jones' first impulse was to shoot, but he first called and asked if it was "Will," to which imperative question he received only a grunt. As the man got near the opening between the Smith residence and that of Thomas McWhinney, he started on the "get away quick" plan; immediately two shots were fired but to no avail.

Indications from foot-prints, and evidence gathered from people in the vicinity of the attempted robbery point to the fact that there were two men in the affair of dishonor, one of whom was fleshy and large and the other small and slender. The police were called to assist, but all clews and trouble failed to make it possible so that it could never happen again from the same intruders.

Many stories, relating incidents, and compositions exist regarding the affair, but it all amounts to the fact that the burglars were unsuccessful, effort was made to capture them, and that they succeeded in taking the air line.

HAND HIGH SCHOOL FRATS HARD BLOW

Indianapolis School Commissioners Will Not Allow the Members of Secret Societies to Graduate.

STEPS MAY BE TAKEN HERE

Agitation against the high school fraternities reached a high point in Indianapolis recently and it is now thought likely that steps along lines similar to those taken by the board of school commissioners of that city may follow in other cities over the State. A resolution was adopted by the board preventing any high school student who is a member of any fraternity from graduating.

The purpose of the resolution, as explained by Dr. Frank A. Morrison, who presented it, is to do away with the secret organization altogether or be instrumental in securing the repeal of the law against their existence.

In Richmond and other cities the matter has been discussed by school officials for some time but no definite action has ever resulted. The step taken by the Indianapolis authorities may set an example to be followed throughout the State. The results attending the order in the capital city will be watched with interest.

The resolution provides that the principals of the Shortridge and the Manual Training high schools be instructed to send printed notices to parents of students belonging to secret societies informing them that such students will not be permitted to graduate if they keep up their membership in the organization after February 1, 1911. Each pupil who presents himself or herself for graduation at the end of any term will be required to present a statement that he or she is not a member of any secret society.

EUROPEAN WINE CROP SHORT

Robert E. Mansfield Reports to the State Department.

Robert E. Mansfield, son-in-law of J. K. Gowdy, consul at Zurich, Switzerland, reports to the state department there has not been such a disastrous failure in the wine production of Europe in 100 years as there is this year.

"The causes contributing to the general failure of the year's vintage," he writes, "were the lack of sunshine during the spring and early summer and the excessive humidity throughout the season, which engendered various forms of insect life, which so blighted the grapes that in some localities there were none to harvest. This was especially true in the more northern wine-producing districts of Europe, including France, Germany, portions of Italy and Switzerland.

BEN NOBLE NOW DENIES CRIME

Once Confessed That he Killed Albert Sprague But Now Firmly Denies That he Did.

TRIAL IS SET FOR JANUARY 9

Told His Attorneys the Same Tale he Told First Morning After Murder.

Despite the fact that he has on several occasions admitted killing Albert Sprague on the 17th day of last July, his sworn confession as the perpetrator of the shocking murder and the fact that he in open court has pleaded guilty to the charge of murder in the first degree, indications now are that Ben Noble will make a persistent fight to save his neck from either the hangman's noose or his body from life imprisonment behind the walls of the State's institution for murderers, says the Greensburg News.

Wednesday afternoon his brother, John William Noble, of Burney, and Attorney E. M. Schofield of the firm of Conway & Schofield, Indianapolis attorneys, came to Greensburg and made inquiries and an investigation concerning the facts of the crime. Attorney Schofield would not state to a News man whether or not his firm was to have charge of Noble's defense, but remarked that he had been employed to come here to conduct an investigation. He, however, stated that Noble in the past few days had to him denied killing Sprague. Noble, according to Mr. Schofield, told identically the same story that he told at first on the morning after the crime.

Noble's denial at this late time that he committed the deed, after all his confessions that he is the slayer of Sprague, is indeed remarkable, and the fact that he would even hint that his confession was obtained under pressure, is not the least plausible, for on many occasions since the crime he has declared, and that voluntarily, that he made his confession to Sheriff S. N. Patterson of his own will and that on all occasions he received the very best of treatment.

The case has been set for trial in the court here for January 9, and it is very possible that Noble's attorneys will ask for a change of venue to some other county.

JUMPED SIXTY FEET TO GROUND

New Castle Man Tested Life-Saving Net by Making Dangerous Leap From Court House.

MOTHER STOOD BY IN TEARS

She Was an Unwilling Witness to Son's Daring and Protested Vigorously.

Howard Payne, son of C. F. Payne and wife, and a well known young man of this city, exhibited a spirit of daring Wednesday afternoon when he made a leap of sixty feet from a window in the court house tower to test the life-saving net, invented by T. F. Browder, says the New Castle Courier. The young man made the perilous descent in safety, although when he hit the net, the atmosphere left his body. He recovered in a few seconds and jumped into the arms of his mother, who was wild with fear. She had not known that her son was to make the leap.

Mrs. Payne, when she saw her son standing in the window, judging the distance and preparing for the jump, cried out in a pitiful manner for him not to make the leap. She cried several times and finally the jumper told her to be still as she was getting "his goat." The mother turned her head and in an instant later young Payne had started. He hit the net squarely and rolled to the edge in search of his breath. His recovery was almost immediate.

Before the long leap Payne jumped from the window of the office of Fay Holoday, court stenographer, in the court house tower. It was about thirty feet above the ground.

About 750 people, men, women and children, saw Payne's daring jump. They held their breath in suspense when he made the leap from the highest point. Many women and not a few men turned their heads, fearing that Payne was about to leap to his death.

After the exhibition Mr. Browder issued a statement to the effect that he was not aware that Payne's mother protested against him making the dangerous leap. He said, "Had I known the mother objected I would not have permitted him to make the jump."

Mr. Browder was thoroughly satisfied with the demonstration even if it did cost him a "tenner."

HAS ONLY FEMININE ROLE

Mrs. Arnold Spencer Has Important Part in Play.

The following from the Indianapolis Star will be of interest to many people of this city, as Mrs. Spencer was formerly from this city and is the daughter of the Rev. V. W. Tevis.

Mrs. Arnold Spencer is the only woman in the cast of "The Burgomaster of Schmollis," the musical comedy which is to be presented New Year's eve at the German House. While Mrs. Spencer has had considerable dramatic experience in local theatricals she has never appeared before a German House audience. The role of Frieda Frisch, the village belle of Schmollis is said to be exceptionally congenial to her.

Besides Mrs. Spencer the cast will be composed of Homer VanWie, Harry Porter, Frank Daniel, Howard Marsh and Theodore Stempfel, Jr. It will be supported by a chorus of twenty young women. Alexander Ernestinoff is the musical director.

CHANGE IN I. & C. GENERAL OFFICE

Several Employes Resign, Including J. W. Moore, Chief Engineer—To Take Effect First of Year.

WITH COMPANY LONG TIME

There will be several changes in the office force at the I. & C. general offices in this city the first of the year. J. W. Moore, chief engineer, has resigned. It is not known where Mr. Moore will locate, but he will probably move from this city. He has made many friends while in this city and it is with regret that Rushville relinquishes its hold on him. Mr. Moore has been with the traction company since it was first built.

Miss Lulu Pulliam, who has been employed as checking clerk, will give up her position. Rumor has it that she is soon to be married.

Miss Arleigh Offutt and Miss Leach have also resigned, as has Cecil Tague. All have been in the employ of the traction company for some time and their future location is not known.

EMPLOYES OF U. S. DESERVE CREDIT

Handled Heavy Christmas Mail in Most Pleasing Way—Volume Was Greater This Year.

THE RUSH IS NOW ABOUT OVER

The Christmas mail broke all records at the local postoffice, the employees handling the largest amount of mail in the history of the office. The reports from all over the country, however, show that the mail was heavier than usual this year. The volume of mail coming into the city was not only heavier than usual but the outgoing mail eclipsed all former records.

The carriers distributed many hundred pounds of mail. On Sunday morning the office was open from 9 until 12 o'clock and every employ of the office assisted in answering the many calls of the patrons. By this means the heavy mail was distributed as early as possible. The post-office employees did great work during the holiday rush and Postmaster Frazee is to be commended upon the manner in which the mail was distributed. The mail is still quite heavy, but the rush is over and the carriers are very glad of it. They had to work hard and more than earned their money.

WILL ANSWER CRITICS.

Professor William Earhart, supervisor of music in the Richmond schools, whose address before the meeting of the National Association of Music Teachers at Milwaukee, last October, caused much newspaper comment because of his criticism of "Home Sweet Home" as a musical composition, will make the same address at Richmond with comment on the criticisms made of his analysis of the popular song. Pupils of the high school and musical students asked Professor Earhart to repeat the lecture, and he has consented, the date to be announced later.

A CONTENTION IN THE CHURCH

A Formal Protest Against the Maintenance of a Guard at Tomb of Deceased Leader Reveals the Fact That Certain of the C. S. Cult Are Confidently Looking Forward to Mrs. Eddy's Bodily Resurrection.

New York, Dec. 29.—A protest against the maintenance by their orders of an armed guard in the receiving vault in Mt. Auburn cemetery on the outskirts of Cambridge, where the body of Mary Baker G. Eddy was temporarily consigned on Dec. 8, has been sent by a certain number of the members of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, of this city to the directors of the Mother church of the Christian Science cult in Boston. The protest sets forth that the action of the directors is comparable to that of the authorities of Jerusalem, who set a guard at the tomb belonging to Joseph of Arimathea wherein Jesus Christ was laid after his crucifixion.

The action of the directors in providing this guard day and night at the tomb of Mrs. Eddy shows lack of faith on their part, the protest sets forth. The soldiers were set on guard at the tomb of Jesus Christ because his disciples had said that he would rise from the dead, and it was the object to disprove this assertion. True followers of Mary Baker Eddy believe that she, also, will manifest herself in a bodily resurrection. The maintenance of the guard at her tomb by the directors of the Mother church seems to these protestants to indicate that the ruling body of the faith in Boston wishes to forestall any evidences of such a manifestation by the establishment of a permanent group of witnesses at the spot where the mortal remains of the former leader of the church lie. Since the hour when Mrs. Eddy's body was laid in the receiving vault in Mt. Auburn cemetery, the guard, consisting of members of the Christian Science faith acceptable to the five directors, has been constantly on watch.

Those of the First Church here who are designated as "abnormal followers of Christian Science" by Eugene Cox, the chairman of the publicity committee of Christian Science in the state of New York, and who united in the protest, believe Mrs. Eddy was one with Christ in the unity of God, and that to prove the truth of her doctrines of the immortality and the unreality of death she will, like Christ, rise from the dead in all the tangible manifestations of the flesh.

They have accepted without question the indirect implications made by the author of Science and Health in that work and her various other writings to the effect that she is the "woman clothed with the sun," mentioned in the twelfth chapter of the apocalypse and that it was her work, "Science and Health," which the "mighty angel came down from Heaven" bore in his hand, as attested to in the tenth chapter of the dreams of St. John on Patmos.

When report of this action was carried to Mr. Cox of the publication committee he seemed to be considerably exercised. "The concept of true Christian Science does not recognize a resurrection of the body in this age," he said. "Any person who believes that Mrs. Eddy will demonstrate herself in the flesh is more than a visionary; he is abnormal. There is no parallel to be drawn between Mrs. Eddy and Jesus Christ. In her own writings Mrs. Eddy has expressed herself as inexpressibly shocked at the suggestion of such a comparison. Christian Science does not teach nor in any way prepare its students to expect such a manifestation on the part of its discoverer. In no part of her writings has Mrs. Eddy even hinted at the possibility of such a phenomenon."

WORK OF DYNAMITERS

Mysterious Crime at Home of Young Farmer Near Mattoon.

Mattoon, Ill., Dec. 29.—The home of Otto Zellars, a young farmer living west of here, was badly damaged by a charge of dynamite, which had been placed under one corner of the building. Mr. and Mrs. Zellars and their little child owe their escape to the fact that Mrs. Zellars had moved their beds, putting the baby's bed in another part of the room. One corner of the house was torn away, but none of the occupants was injured. There is no clue in the case.

Shot by His Colored Wife.
Indianapolis, Dec. 29.—Following a quarrel in their home, James A. King, white, was shot and perhaps fatally injured by his colored wife. The bullet perforated the lining of the stomach. King was taken to the city hospital. Mrs. King was arrested.

Grace's Body Washed Ashore.
London, Dec. 29.—The body of a man believed to be that of Cecil Grace, the aviator who was lost while attempting to make a return flight from France, has been washed up by the sea at Adinkerke, near the Franco-Belgian frontier.

A Poor Weak Woman

As she is termed, will endure bravely and patiently agonies which a strong man would give way under. The fact is women are more patient than they ought to be under such troubles.

Every woman ought to know that she may obtain the most experienced medical advice free of charge and in absolute confidence and privacy by writing to the World's Dispensary Medical Association, R. V. Pierce, M. D., President, Buffalo, N. Y. Dr. Pierce has been chief consulting physician of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, of Buffalo, N. Y., for many years and has had a wider practical experience in the treatment of women's diseases than any other physician in this country. His medicines are world-famous for their astonishing efficacy.

The most perfect remedy ever devised for weak and delicate women is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

IT MAKES WEAK WOMEN STRONG, SICK WOMEN WELL.

The many and varied symptoms of woman's peculiar ailments are fully set forth in Plain English in the People's Medical Adviser (1008 pages), a newly revised and up-to-date Edition of which, cloth-bound, will be mailed free on receipt of 31 one-cent stamps to pay cost of mailing only. Address as above.

BOTH FACTIONS IN AGREEMENT

Republicans to Consider Compromise Commission Bill.

IT HAS THE PRESIDENT'S O. K.

Measure to Be Presented by Representative Longworth Early in January Contains the Best Parts of the Previous Bills on This Subject Introduced by Both the Regulars and the Insurgents, and May Get Through.

Washington, Dec. 29.—Early in January a bill providing for a permanent tariff commission will be introduced in the house by Representative Longworth of Ohio. The measure, which will have the approval of the administration, will present a compromise, as it is to be made up of bills offered by Mr. Longworth, who is acting for the president in this matter, and Representatives Goode of Iowa and Lenroot of Wisconsin, who affiliate with the progressive Republicans. As things now stand the administration expects that the Longworth bill will have the united support of the leaders of both factions of the party in the house and senate. The bill will be put forward with the argument that it is intended as an effort to remove the tariff from politics as far as possible. The Democrats, it is understood, will fight the Longworth bill.

Friends of the administration believe the consideration of the Longworth bill will bring the Republican factions in congress together for the first time in years. The bill has been drawn with care. Concessions have been made to the La Follette-Cummins wing, and regulars who have heretofore shown their teeth every time the tariff board was mentioned have signified a purpose to support the measure.

ure. All signs point to a lively fight over the Longworth bill. If the measure fails every effort will be made to secure another appropriation for the existing board through the medium of the sundry civil bill, which will be reported to the house some time in February.

EXPLOSION INTERNAL

Buffalo, N. Y., Dec. 29.—The Commercial says it has information from the Lackawanna Steel company that the battleship Maine was not blown up by Spain, but was destroyed by an internal explosion in its own ammunition magazine. No confirmation has come yet from the company as to this statement. The story says that the fact has been known in Washington for several weeks. It says the finding of the turret of the ship in Havana harbor separate from the rest of the vessel proves an internal explosion. The Lackawanna Steel company has the contract for the piling for coffer dam work at Havana.

The Judge's Crime.

A prisoner, a faded, battered specimen of mankind, on whose haggard face, deeply lined with the marks of dissipation, there still lingered faint reminders of better days long past, stood dejected before a New York police judge. "Where are you from?" asked the magistrate. "From Boston," answered the accused. "Indeed," said the judge—"indeed, yours is a sad face, and yet you don't seem to thoroughly realize how low you have sunk." The man started as if struck. "Your honor does me an injustice," he said bitterly. "The disgrace of arrest for drunkenness, the mortification of being thrust into a noisome dungeon, the publicity and humiliation of trial in a crowded and dingy courtroom I can bear, but to be sentenced by a police magistrate who splits his infinitives—that is indeed the last blow."—New York World.

SOCIETY NEWS

The Knights of Columbus entertained last night at their club rooms with a card party and box social. A large crowd was present and a very enjoyable time was had.

A large crowd promises to be in attendance at the Tri Kappa dance tonight, including several out-of-town visitors. Indianapolis musicians will furnish the music for the occasion.

Miss Louise Craig of Rushville was the honor guest at a 7 o'clock dinner given by Miss Mary Hernly at her home on South Main street last evening, says the New Castle Times. The table appointments were very pretty, pink roses forming the centerpiece. An elaborate four course dinner was served to the following: Misses Louise Craig of Rushville; Cleo McWhorter, Fern Cammack, Marie Brown, Katherine Hunt, and Messrs. Hubert Hanna, Don Mowrer, Thompson Wright, Walter Hondoble, Harry Gephart and John Morris.

The Wabash Plain Dealer of Tuesday says: A dinner beautiful in all its appointments was given by Mrs. Errett Carpenter at her home in Main street, Christmas night at seven o'clock. The rooms throughout were charming with the Christmas embellishments of bells, holly, mistletoe and candles. A large number of home people were in attendance. Among the guests from out of town were John Q. Thomas of Rushville, Dr. and Mrs. C. F. Smith and Dr. and Mrs. John Thomas of Indianapolis. Mrs. L. A. Dawes had charge of the music and Miss Helen Depuy presided at the piano.

AMUSEMENTS

The Palace offers an Essanay film for tonight entitled "A Western Woman's Way." The picture shows the life on the western plains and the part a woman of this wild country has to undergo. A new illustrated song will be sung.

The Vaudet will have two reels of pictures for tonight. The first is a drama entitled "Robinson Crusoe." The second is an Italia film entitled "A Fool's Head in the Lion's Den." This is said to be a great comedy. On next Monday night as a special attraction Wagoner's orchestra will render a program.

The Star Grand has a superb dramatic offering for tonight in the "Reliance" film entitled "The Thin Dark Line," faithfully portraying Italian peasant life, with its warm-blooded loves and jealousies. In furthering the love affairs of her cousin, a young wife arouses the suspicion of her husband, who is saved from committing an awful tragedy. The unfolding plot will carry the audience to the highest pitch of curious interest, the tensely of which is pleasantly relieved by the happy sequel, with a penitent man realizing the virtues of his innocent wife, and the yawning chasm of regret and despair into which his unreasoning jealousy well-nigh precipitated him.

The Boy Who Runs Away

Hardly a day passes but that announcement is made of the disappearance of a boy, the age varying from 10 to 15, with the fear expressed by the parents that he has been kidnapped. They can imagine no reason, these elders, why their son should voluntarily leave home; he has been well cared for and was apparently happy and contented, as he had every reason to be. Also, in his private opinion he was especially attractive and might naturally win the attention of strangers; hence their thought of kidnapping as a probable explanation of his absence.

Kidnapping is in reality about the last fate likely to overtake a boy 16 years and "upward." A lad of that age is commonly fairly well able to take care of himself, and, assuming that his extreme winsomeness should lead any passing stranger to desire to secure permanent possession of him, that feat would be tolerably difficult of accomplishment. A boy can use his tongue and his legs, and he can also communicate by writing. Unless shut in an iron cell—hardly a likely fate—the average active, ingenious boy would speedily cause the designing stranger to be glad to be rid of him.

As a matter of fact, in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred, a boy who disappears from home goes voluntarily. In most cases he returns as willingly, having found that the world is not precisely what he thought it; but he departs because he wants to know things and to enjoy experiences that it seems to him time will never bring about if he does not hasten matters. Time moves slowly to youth, and it can not comprehend that later it will be gasping at the swift-going years, hoping to hold them back. It does not know how to wait; it wishes to have its knowledge now.

So it is that the boy who disappears is moved by a keen, overwhelming desire to know what lies beyond the horizon's rim. He is not satisfied with what is immediately around him; his imagination reaches farther and he can not wait until he is a man—far off time to him—to investigate the mysteries. Perhaps he has a specific curiosity to satisfy, some scheme for seeking a fortune to work out, possibly; or he may go from sheer love of adventure and of the unknown. But it is because he is a boy that he goes, a boy with "long, long thoughts" of which those around him know nothing.

He has dreams of a world which is not the real world. He does not see with the eyes of maturity nor understand what seems clear to his elders. He is a boy and not to be judged as a man. He has visions that fade, alas, as years go; but when he wanders from home he follows them and is not to be blamed as one guilty of fault, but sympathized with and envied by those who have once had the visions and lost them—the elders who have been beyond the horizon and know how little is there. The boy who runs away merely makes the mistake of trying to uncover the world's mysteries too soon.

Cayley's Promise.

For this small mercy Cayley thanked God. The girl did not understand. She was rubbing those sleepy eyes of hers and putting back, into place, stray locks of hair that were in the way. "The floor must have gone to pieces," she said, "and they've drifted off in the fog without knowing it. I suppose there's no telling when they'll be back; very likely not for hours."

He did not risk trying to answer her. All his will power was directed to keeping the real significance of the yacht's disappearance from showing in his face.

She had turned to him quite casually for an answer, but not getting it, remained looking intently into his eyes. "Mr. Cayley," she asked presently, "were you telling me last night what you really thought was true, or were you just encouraging me—I mean about those men who attacked the yacht? Are you afraid, after all, that our people are not in possession of the Aurora, wherever she is?"

"I told you the truth last night. I can't imagine any possibility by which the men who came here on the Walrus could get the Aurora away from your people, except by stealth."

"But if our people beat them off, why didn't they come ashore? There aren't any of them around, are there?" "Apparently not," said Cayley. "They may have all been killed before they could get back to shore, or some of them may have been captured. No, I really don't think you need worry about them."

She drew a long deep breath, flung out her arms wide, and then stretched them skyward. "What a day it is. Was there ever such a day down there in that warm green world that people live in?—Oh, I don't wonder that you love it. I wish I could fly as you do. But since I can't, for this one day you must stay down here upon the earth with me."

Her mention of his wings gave him his first faint perception of the line the struggle would take. His mind flashed for an instant into the position which her own would take when she should know the truth. To her it would not seem that they were castaways together. He was not marooned here on this shore. His ship was waiting to take him anywhere in the world. He was as free as the wind itself—

"I believe living in the sky is what makes you do that," he heard her say—"makes you drift off into trances that way, perfectly oblivious to the fact that people are asking you questions."

He met her smiling eyes, and a smile came, unbidden, into his own. "You've forgiven me already, I see," he said. "What was the question about?"

"It was about breakfast. Have you anything to eat in that bundle of yours?"

He shook his head, and she drew down her lips in mock dismay. "Is there anything to eat anywhere?" she questioned, sweeping her arm round in a half circle, landward. "Mustn't we go hunting for a walrus or a snark or something?"

Cayley had to turn away from her as she said that. The remorseless irony of the situation was getting be-

The demand for this well-known herb for this purpose has been so great that one manufacturer has taken advantage of the fact, and has placed on the market an ideal "sage tea," containing sulphur, a valuable remedy for dandruff and scalp rashes and irritations. This preparation, which is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, is sold by all leading druggists for 50 cents and $1 a bottle, or will be sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

would not permit him to fly away; this last gay jest out of the pages of "Alice in Wonderland" about hunting for a walrus.

"God!" he whispered as he turned away—"My God!"

He had his revolver, and besides the six cartridges which the cylinder contained, there were, perhaps, 30 in his belt. For how many days, or weeks, would they avail to keep off starvation?

But his face was composed again when he turned back to her. "There are two things that come before breakfast," he said—"fire and water. There is a line of driftwood down the beach to the westward, there at the foot of the talus. When we get a fire going—" he stopped himself short. "I was going to say that we could melt some ice for drinking water, but until we have some sort of cooking utensil to melt it in, it won't do much good. There must be something of the sort in the hut here."

She shook her head. "They're completely abandoned," she told him. "Our shore party searched them first of all, and afterward Uncle Jerry and I searched them through again. There is nothing there at all, but some heaps of rubbish."

"I think I'll take a look myself," said he. "Rubbish is a relative term. What seemed no better than that yesterday afternoon while the yacht was in the harbor may take on a different meaning this morning."

He disappeared through the doorway, and two minutes later she saw him coming back with a big battered-looking biscuit tin.

"Unless this leaks too fast," he said, "it will serve our purpose admirably."

He observed, without reflecting what the observation meant, that a beautiful supply of fuel was lying in great drifts along the lower slope of the talus. Jeanne accompanied him upon his quest of it, and with small loss of time and no trouble at all they collected an armful. They laid their fire upon a great flat stone in front of the hut, for the outdoor day was too fine to abandon for the dark and damp in the interior, and soon they had the fire blazing cheerfully.

For a while they sat, side by side, upon his great sheepskin, warming their fingers and watching the drip of the melting ice in the biscuit tin.

But presently Cayley got to his feet. "Breakfast!" he said.

"Is there to be anything besides a good big drink of water apiece? If there isn't, I'd rather not think about it until the yacht comes back."

"Unless I'm mistaken, there's an excellent breakfast waiting for us not far from where we got the fire-wood. But I'll go and make sure before I raise your expectations any higher."

He walked away a half-dozen paces without waiting for any reply; then, thinking suddenly of something else, he came swiftly back again.

"Do you know anything about firearms?" he asked. "If you're accustomed to shooting, I'll leave my revolver with you.—No," he went on, answering the question which she had not spoken—"no, I don't foresee any danger to you. It's just on general principles."

"I'm a pretty good shot. But if you're going on a hunting expedition for our breakfast and there isn't any foreseeable danger to me in being left alone, it seems reasonable that you should take the gun."

He took the revolver from his belt, however, and held it out to her. "Our breakfast doesn't have to be shot. And as a concession to my feelings—no, it's nothing more than that—I'd rather you took it."

She did as he asked without further demur, and he went away. When she was left alone, the girl added fresh sticks to the fire, and then, in default of any more active occupation, took up the red-bound book which lay beside her and began once more to peruse its pages. She had by no means exhausted them. In her reading of the night before, she had skipped the pages of scientific description for those parts of the journal which were most purely personal. Even now the whole pages of carefully tabulated data concerning the winds, currents, temperature, and magnetic variations got scant attention. In her present mood the homeliest little adventure, the idliest diversion of a winter's day meant more to her than all her father's discoveries put together. When she saw Cayley coming back toward her across the ice, she put the book down half reluctantly.

Evidently his quest for breakfast had not been in vain; he had a big black and white bird in his hand. "Do you suppose it's fit to eat?" she called out to him. "How in the world did you manage to kill it without the revolver?"

"Fit to eat! It's a duck. What's more, it's an elder, which means that her coat is worth saving."

"But how did you contrive to kill her?"

"I didn't. She killed herself. She was flying too low last night, I suppose—going down the gale, and in the fog she went smack into the side of the cliff and broke her neck. That was a very destructive storm for the birds. There must be 50 of them, of one kind and another, lying dead there along the top of the talus, at the foot of the cliff."

"And that's what might have happened, oh, so easily, to you. Yes, it might. I've been realizing that. And I shan't forget." Her eyes had brightened and she pressed her hands to them for just one moment; then she straightened up briskly. "Anyway, I'll not make a scene about it now," she said. "I'll show a little practical sense and help you with the breakfast."

"No, we're camping out today, and on such occasions the men always do the cooking. Go back to your book while I skin this fowl and dress it." Then as she still hesitated, he went on: "The most beautiful garment I ever saw, anywhere, was on a Chucotte Indian girl. It was made of nothing but the breasts of these elders. But the process isn't pretty. I'd much rather you went back to your book."

Seeing that he meant it, she did as he asked. A single half page of what was written upon those closely ruled pages was enough to absorb her again completely. The power it had over her seemed to grow rather than to lessen. When Cayley came up with the big bird which was to serve for their breakfast, impaled upon a sharp stick ready to be roasted over the fire, she no more than looked up at him, with a smile very friendly, but half-apologetic, and then went on with her reading. He crouched down near by her, built a little frame-work of sticks above the fire and began his cooking.

It was, perhaps, ten minutes after that when he saw the book drop suddenly from her hands. When he glanced up at her, she was looking seaward—out over those miles of plunging, heaving ice. And, under his eyes, her face turned white as marble. Her bloodless lips were parted. They did not move at all and they looked as if they were frozen. He could not see that she was breathing. Her eyes were turned away from him and he was glad of that. For another moment more, at least, he need not read the look in them. For now, at last, he was sure she understood. He himself fixed his eyes upon the fire and waited.

"There's something here," she whispered, "here in this book of father's, that—that I want you to read."

It was still open at the page she had been reading when she had dropped it. With his first glance at what was written there he saw how she had come, so suddenly to understand.

"September 18th.—Field-ice came into the bay last night, just as it has come at about this season in the two preceding years—a dense fog and a whole gale blowing from the east. To me its coming is a relief. It is, in a

Feet So Sore Couldn't Walk Down Stairs—

TIZ Cured Her Quick.

If you have sore feet, tired feet, sweaty feet, lame feet, tender feet, smelly feet, corns, callouses or bunions, read what happened to Mrs. Crockett, of Jeffersonville. TIZ DID IT. Mr. Crockett says: "After the second treatment she walked downstairs one foot at a time. She has not been able to walk downstairs before in past five years, except by stepping down on each step with one foot at a time. This is remarkable. Send five more boxes." No matter what ails your feet or what under heaven you have used without getting relief, just use TIZ. It's different. It acts right off. It cures sore feet to stay cured. It's the only foot remedy ever made which acts on the principle of drawing out all the poisonous exudations which cause sore feet. Powders and other remedies merely clog up the pores. TIZ cleans them out and keeps them clean. You will feel better the first time it's used. Use it a week and you can forget you ever had sore feet. There is nothing on earth that can compare with it. TIZ is for sale at all druggists, 25c per box, or direct, if you wish, from Walter Luther Dodge & Co., Chicago, Ill.

way, the official beginning of winter. The tantalizing hope of a rescue is now put away on the shelf to wait for another summer. After all, to men in our condition a temporary hopelessness is much more comfortable than hope itself. The long winter night gives an opportunity to revive our belief that with another season of open water, rescue will come.

"I have been very busy lately stocking our larder for the next six months."

"That Gospel Begins With Breakfast," He Said.

Fortunately, I have succeeded in killing bears and walrusenough to keep us supplied. I wish I could feel as easy about our fuel. We have swept the beach clear of drift-wood, but shall have barely enough to get through the winter with. For myself, who have no real hope at all, it doesn't greatly matter. I greet the dawn of each of these interminable arctic days with intense weariness. And I never bid farewell to the sun for another winter without an involuntary "In manus Tuas."

Cayley read the entry through slowly. "I'm glad it happened this way," he said when he finished, "glad it was your father who told you. All this past hour I've been wondering how I could tell you, how I could make you understand."

NO WORD REGARDING BATTLE OF MAL PASO

Mexican Minister of War Is On the Anxious Seat.

City of Mexico, Dec. 29.—The minister of war denies a report which was published here that a junction had been effected between General Navarro's troops and the troops sent from Chihuahua. He says the government has not been notified yet as to how things are going there. Official news was received that a battle was proceeding at Mal Paso. The minister of war says nothing definite has been received regarding the outcome. News is expected today.

The revolution which broke out in Tabasco Monday is said to be getting worse. The government has sent troops there from Vera Cruz. Gunboats are being sent from other points. This rising is said to be directly connected with the Madero movement. It is considered here to be extremely serious. Several attacks have been made on haciendas owned by Americans. News from official sources says the government has won every encounter.

A report from Yucatan says the Maya Indians are in revolt near the border of the "Quintana Roo." Large bands are attacking farms. They held up and robbed a train yesterday. The government is sending troops there. The trouble now is the scarcity of troops, as more than half the standing army is in Chihuahua.

Found No Rebels.

El Paso, Tex., Dec. 29.—Information from two sources is that federal reinforcements from Chihuahua for General Navarro of Pedernales have got through Mal Paso, where Colonel Guzmans troops were ambushed. One report says they fought their way through, another that they found no rebels. They can now soon join Navarro.

Tamagno Walked, but His Carriage Bill Had to Be Paid.

Several years ago a tenor named Tamagno was engaged to come to America and sing at the Metropolitan Opera House, New York. He was paid $1,000 a night. This is a sum which would make many people willing to put up with small extra expenses, but not so Tamagno. Before leaving Europe he made a stipulation that he be furnished with a carriage to and from the opera house every night. This was inserted in the contract.

When he arrived he found a carriage waiting at the pier. He rode uptown—always at the expense of the opera company—and took a look around. Then he decided to put up at the Marlborough hotel, which happened to be only three short blocks from the Metropolitan Opera House. Every time he sang he walked up to the opera house, refusing to take a carriage. He said he had just as soon walk. When it came time for him to return to Europe he presented a bill for over $200 "for carriages to and from the opera."

"But you didn't take a carriage," said the manager of the opera company.

Tamagno bowed low and invited the manager to look at the contract. He repeated the same suggestion whenever anything was said about it. The result, of course, was that the $200 had to be paid. He stood out for it with as much insistence as if he hadn't seen a dollar for a month, and all the time he was getting $1,000 a night.

MILLIONS INVOLVED IN THIS LAND SUIT

Government Seeks to Set Aside Old Conveyance.

Portland, Ore., Dec. 29.—Assistant United States Attorney Townsend has begun suit here against the Southern Oregon company as successor to the Coos Bay Wagon Road company, which has for its purpose the recovering by the United States government of 96,676 acres of land in southern Oregon. The value of the lands is said to amount to millions of dollars. The federal government stipulated in the grant that the land was to be sold in tracts no greater than 160 acres to each person and for a stipulated consideration. According to the federal authorities all the grant except 6,893 acres was sold June 22, 175, to Joseph Miller, agent for Collis P. Huntington, Charles Crocker, Leland Stanford and Mark Hopkins.

It is alleged further that in an effort to clear the title from the cloud on it, a mortgage to secure "an alleged indebtedness" was made to the Boston State Deposit company in 1884.

The complaint recites that this alleged indebtedness was "fictitious, feigned and untrue," and that foreclosure of this mortgage was "with the intent and in the hope that the restrictions upon the sale and disposition of the granted lands might be defeated." This land, it is said, included the acres on which United States Senator Tillman is alleged to have filed.

INDIANA'S NEW BOOKKEEPING

Auditors and Treasurers Must Use Same System.

EXAMINERS' WORK SIMPLIFIED

Beginning the First Day of the New Year All County Auditors and County Treasurers in the Hoosier State will Have to Open Up a New Set of Books in Conformity With the New Accounting Law.

Indianapolis, Dec. 29.—On Jan. 1 a new system of bookkeeping prescribed by the state board of accounts for auditors and treasurers will be installed in every county in Indiana. Forms for the new books have already been sent out by the board and are now being printed.

Instead of using ninety-two different systems of keeping their accounts, all county auditors and treasurers in the state will employ one method. The effect will be to greatly lessen the work of the examiners for the board as well as to prevent errors by officials. A majority of the discrepancies discovered by the examiners in their investigations of county, city, township and school officials are due to poor methods of bookkeeping.

This is the second important change in accounting methods inaugurated by the board. A year ago a new system of bookkeeping was prescribed for township trustees with satisfactory results. The work will be extended until the same class of officials all over Indiana will be using uniform methods.

TO ELIMINATE "FRATS"

Indianapolis School Authorities Take Drastic Action.

Indianapolis, Dec. 29.—An official blow expected to kill the high school fraternities in Indianapolis has been administered by the board of school commissioners, who, at their last regular meeting unanimously passed a resolution preventing a high school student belonging to a fraternity to graduate.

The resolution provides that the principals of the two high schools send printed notices to the parents of students belonging to the secret societies, notifying them that students will not be permitted to graduate unless they give up fraternity membership by Feb. 1, 1911. In speaking for the resolution President Morrison stated its passage would mean the elimination of the fraternities in Indianapolis or the repeal of the state law against them.

SENATOR FLINT

FORTIFICATION PLAN WORRYING MR. TAFT

Will Congress Come Across With the Needed Millions?

Washington, Dec. 29.—The administration's policy with reference to the fortification of the Panama canal will likely depend largely on the result of a conference at the White House last night between Mr. Taft, Secretary of State Knox, Senator Flint of California, chairman of the senate committee on interoceanic canal, and Mr. Mann of Illinois, chairman of the house committee on interstate and foreign commerce. While no official statement was given out and reticence was maintained by the parties to the conference, it is accepted that Mr. Knox's presence means that the treaty provision which has been quoted of late by advocates of the protection of the canal by neutralization was under discussion.

The president realizes that the proposition to spend about $20,000,000 for the fortification of the canal—$7,000,000 being asked for this year to begin the work—will not have plain sailing in congress. Consequently the president and his advisers realize that it will be necessary to get to work at the earliest possible moment in order to secure sufficient strength in both branches of congress to put the project through. It is accepted with certainty that President Taft will send a special message to congress on this subject early in January.

VINDICATED

Infallibility of Thumb Print Tests Has Been Clearly Shown.

London, Dec. 29.—About a week ago a man was arraigned in the High Gate police court on a misdemeanor charge, but was acquitted when he produced proof that finger prints the police claimed were taken upon the occasion of a previous conviction could not be his, as he was serving in the army at the time. This, it was said, was the first time that identification by means of finger prints failed. Now the infallibility of that method has been vindicated. It has been discovered that the man referred to was never a soldier. He stole the proofs of another's army service. New evidence has been obtained substantiating the police charge that he had previously been sentenced on another charge.

To Break European Rubber Market.

San Francisco, Dec. 29.—The Continental Rubber company, which is part of the rubber trust, has gained control of four of the biggest rubber plantations in the Malay Islands and has plans laid to break the rubber market of Europe, according to information which Peter Archibald Gordon Grimes, a rubber magnate of India and the Straits Settlement, who is here, has just received from Singapore. Grimes declares he intends to return to Singapore at once, and demand that the merger be dissolved. He says he will bring action in the British courts.

Little Farm Produces Oil Gusher.

Muncie, Ind., Dec. 29.—Benjamin Morrison, colored porter at a cigar store until several weeks ago, when he received a letter from his mother at Macon, Mo., informing him that oil had been struck on his forty-acre farm near Tulsa, Okla., writes from Macon that he has leased his land for five years at $20,000 a year to the Standard Oil company.

A Boy and a Gun.

Sullivan, Ind., Dec. 29.—While hunting, James Alsop, aged thirteen, son of John Alsop, a farmer, living seven miles southeast of Sullivan, was shot through the foot by the accidental discharge of a gun. The foot will have to be amputated.

DO YOU BUY HEAT OR JUST COAL?

(Technical World Magazine.)

Mr. W. S. Gould of New York, a leading authority on the subject, in conversation with the writer cited the instance of one large plant which decided to secure a laboratory test of its fuel and discovered that it ran as high as forty-one per cent. of incom-bustibles. Complaint was made to the dealer who repeated the complaint to the mine operator and the result was seen in the next shipment tested, the proportion of ash being reduced to fifteen per cent, at which point it has been kept by frequent tests ever since. As the plant in question consumes about 70,000 tons a year such a saving of twenty-six per cent, in fuel value has been equal to a total of 18,200 tons, which at $2.50 a ton would amount to $45,500!

A saving of $45,000 in a single year in a single commodity is hardly negligible in any time. The delinquency in this case was an exceptional one but it is claimed that any consumer should be able to save at least ten per cent on the commercial run of coal when purchased upon the heat basis.

The need for such remedy is partly chargeable to that carelessness on the part of the operator and dealer which the unsuspecting credulity of the purchaser is apt to encourage and partly to a deliberate purpose to take an extra profit. Coal men not uncommonly work in from ten per cent. to twenty per cent. of slate and one of them naively entered the claim that fourteen per cent was allowable. Had his customer paid fourteen per cent. of the coal bill with counterfeit money his view of privilege might have changed, for slate is not an inherent part of coal ash and may be mechanically separated at the mine. Moreover, it clogs the combustion and causes clinkers which often contain large lumps of unconsumed carbon at their centers. Occasionally there are submitted great, gray clinkers resembling pig iron, which upon being broken open, prove to be little more than unburned coal covered with a hard glaze from improper combustion. Such trickery therefore results in a much greater loss of heat to the consumer than merely the proportion of adulterant, to say nothing of the harmful effect upon the furnace, and the added labor of stoking and ash handling. With scientific scrutiny of the fuel purchase it is probable that the coal trade would be inspired with the conception of honesty was the best policy quite as strikingly as have the food packers since recent legislation upon the subject.

DARING DRIVER IN 500 MILE RACE

"Happy Johnny" Aitken Will Drive in the International Sweepstakes to be Held in Indianapolis.

HIS ONLY RACE OF THE YEAR

Speedway Promises to be Busy Place on May 30—Purse For $25,000.

One of the oldest veterans of the motor racing game, "Happy Johnny" Aitken, is the fourth entrant in the 500-mile International Sweepstakes race to be held on the Indianapolis Motor Speedway May 30th. Aitken's nomination as pilot of the National speedway roadster 1911 model was made by the National Motor Vehicle Co., of Indianapolis, and along with the entry came the announcement that this will be the only appearance of the famous driver during the coming season. Aitken is assistant manager of the Indianapolis sales department and has practically abandoned the hazardous sport of motor racing except for this one instance.

The other entries thus far made in the big classic for which a purse of $25,000 is offered are "Louie" Strank in a Case Car; C. B. Baldwin in an Inter-State "50", and a Simplex for which the pilot has not been named.

Aitken's announcement that he would drive the National stock "40" in this supreme test created some surprise, but the motor jockey explained his position by saying:

"I know that many special racing cars manned by some of the best men in the game will be pitted against me, and I believe that the race is to be the biggest thing of the kind ever planned, but the performance of my stock 1910 model, has led me to believe that the 1911 will go through without a whimper and prove to be one of the toughest nuts the boys ever tried to crack.

Aitkens has the new motor ready for tuning and will work at it on the road and in tests at the Speedway between now and the time for the race. As many of the testers work their cars out over the Speedway course during the idle months, Aitken will find chances for many little brushes.

CROP REPORTERS ARMY OF 130,000

Uncle Sam's Estimates Complex and Fairly Accurate.

WATCH FIFTY-FIVE SUBJECTS

Merchants, Manufacturers and Railroads Interested in Government's Monthly Figures on Planting, Acreage and Harvesting In Order to Forecast Country's Prosperity.

One hundred and thirty thousand persons—a mighty army—secure for Uncle Sam the information contained in the monthly crop reports, which convey as near as it is possible for human agencies the condition and prospects of the chief agricultural products of the country at that time. These reports are literally the pulse of the country's prosperity. Few people, however, realize the amount of work, the minute detail, connected with supplying this information to the public free of charge.

If reports during the growing season show that the condition of wheat is such as to indicate a full crop on a large area the merchants of the wheat producing sections of the country know that they can give liberal orders for goods to be handled by them several weeks or months later. The manufacturers, located far from the wheatfields, know where there will be a large demand for such of their products as are used by all dependent on the wheat industry, the railroads know they will have heavy freights to transport, and so the advance knowledge regarding the probable future outcome of the crop serves as a guide to every branch of commerce and trade connected with the wheat growing areas of the country. The same is true as to the other crops—corn, cotton, oats, rye, tobacco, etc.

Monthly Reports Necessary.

If, on the other hand, the condition of growing crops is unfavorable reliable information to that effect is equally—in fact, more—important to trade and commerce than when the promise is good.

It was to remedy the evils and to subserve and protect the interests of all that congress provided for issuing monthly crop reports. The crop reporting service of the department of agriculture aims to supply the public at large with impartial, unbiased information regarding crop areas, conditions and yields, which it must be apparent is lightly essential and beneficial not only to farmers, but to commercial interests of every kind and class.

Following the estimates regarding acreage come the condition reports which are made from month to month during the growing season, including not only the crops concerning which estimates are made, but also so called "minor crops." Altogether during the year estimates regarding conditions are made for fifty-five separate and distinct crops.

There are four great sources through which data are secured by the department:

First.—A corps of township correspondents numbering between 30,000 and 40,000.

Second.—There is a corps of county correspondents, one of whom resides in each agricultural county in the United States. The county correspondents have each from three to ten friends scattered throughout the county who report to him each month.

Third.—In each state there is a salaried employee known as a state statistical agent. He maintains a large corps of correspondents throughout his state, who report to him each month. The state statistical agent in the more important agricultural states performs considerable travel for the purpose of personally familiarizing himself with crop conditions.

Corps of Special Agents.

Fourth.—There is a corps of special field agents, each of whom has two or more states through which he travels, interviewing farmers, agricultural implement dealers, country merchants, grain and elevator men, produce dealers, country bankers and any others who by the nature of their business are well informed regarding agricultural conditions and prospects. The special field agents also go into the fields and personally examine the crops.

In addition to these four general sources of information the bureau has special lists of correspondents, such as mills and elevators for the wheat crop, cotton ginneries for the cotton crop and various other classes for other crops, which report to the bureau whenever called upon. Altogether there are upward of 130,000 voluntary correspondents of the bureau, none of whom receives money compensation.

The crop reporting board consists, as a rule, of five members—the chief of the bureau of statistics acting as chairman. The associate statistician and another agricultural statistical scientist in the employ of the bureau at Washington serve on the bureau regularly, and each month two employees of the bureau—either special field agents or state statistical agents—are brought to Washington for service on the board.

ARABIC NUMERALS.

The characters or figures used everywhere and in practically all languages are the Arabic numerals, and an illustration of what mankind owes to these labor saving numerals compared with preceding forms of notation is shown in adding 1848 to 1848, the sum of which is expressed in only four figures, or 3696. Meantime in Roman characters we would have to denote 1848 with the capital letters MDCCCXLVIII. Repeating these letters explains why Cicero complained of the sweating toil of all addition. On that account Homer's total of Agamemnon's fleet is not the correct sum of the different contingents to it which he gives of the Grecian States, Herodotus is worse yet when he gives the total figures of Xerxes' army after enumerating the quota of the various nationalities which composed it. Likewise what a life insurance company would now do without Arabic numerals may be imagined.

(Hartford City Times.)

Things didn't run very smoothly in the Republican party in Indiana this year. We do not believe there is any one bold enough or weak enough to deny this assertion. The party was split fore and aft, up and down, inside and outside and crosswise and zigzag—but we are gradually coming to our senses, and we hope the coming year will witness all factions gathered about a grave where the hatchet is being buried with the handle down. It was a vicious campaign with but few pleasant things connected with it. But through the internecine fight there stalked one prominent figure who came out of it without a scar or blemish—and that man is Charles Warren Fairbanks. While not assuming a negative position, he was so candid and fair and honest in every assumption, that he won the deepest regard and respect of all members of both factions. Charles W. Fairbanks, by every right, is entitled to be classed as one of the brainiest and most commanding figures in Indiana's history. Never carried away by emotional creeds or whims yet he is at the same time a man who feels for the people and is to be found at all times proclaiming those policies which in the end will conserve the best interests of the greater number. Out of the smoke and the fire of the bloody fight he has come clean and unseathed. And he has accomplished all this without sacrificing a single principle.

A severe but well deserved punishment was meted out this week to Mrs. Tresselt of Fort Wayne. Last August she ran over and killed a nine-year-old girl while speeding her automobile through the city and did not even stop to pay attention to the accident. She was sentenced from two to twenty-one years in State prison. A few more such sentences would cure these wreckless speed maniacs.

The postoffice department is making a special effort to arrest swindlers for using the mails for purposes to defraud. Why use this round about way to reach swindlers? Why not arrest them for swindling directly? Was the postoffice department established for the purpose of detecting and punishing criminals or for the purpose of collecting and distributing mail matter?

Princeton gets the only postal savings bank in Indiana from among the number to be put into operation January 3 by the United States government for a try-out. But one such bank is allotted to each State. Princeton was selected in Indiana because of its combination of manufacturing interests within and the abundance of farm interests around. Two per cent interest and the certificate system of book-keeping are features of the innovation.

Rumors were again afloat of a plot to dethrone King Alfonso of Spain. What chance would a Republic of Spain have to be recognized by the United States? Up to the present time the new Republic of Portugal has not yet been recognized by this, the foremost and leading republic of the world.

The Christmas present business is getting so strenuous that cutting down your list is regarded about like an insurance company that should decline to pay the regular annuities due for life.

The idea of the Democrats seems to be not to pass a tariff bill, but to get one vetoed, so as to get the credit without any responsibility.

The Spanish deputies have passed the "Padlock" bill. All governments have to find new ways to hold down the lid.

As a little reminder, there are only 361 days in which to do your Christmas shopping.

Next Sunday you will write it "January 1, 1911" but the tag on your paper should read "Jan 12". The postal rules say so.

They say lady shoppers will find it more convenient to cross the streets amid blocks instead of at the regular crossings—unless they are good jumpers.

ORCHARDS NEGLECTED.

Since a small colony of Rush county people has settled in Roswell, New Mexico, we hear much of the orchards there, and the fine fruit they are raising, and the big incomes from orchards. Also it is stated that these orchards are worth from $500 to $1,000 per acre.

One need not go to New Mexico, or the Hood River Valley in Oregon for fine apples. They are raised right here in Indiana, if the proper methods are used in caring for the orchards.

In Indiana, the production of fruit has fallen from 32,992,180 bushels in 1880 to 997,800 in 1908, and all because of the fact that farmers are not giving the orchard the attention it deserves. Every farm still has its orchard and a few large commercial orchards have been planted, yet ninety-five per cent of the apples used in Indiana are imported from some other fruit growing State. The reason for this decline of production and inequality of supply and demand can be given in the one word—neglect. Indiana can raise just as good apples today as you can where the orchards bring from $1,000 to $1,200 per acre.

TREES SAVE THE LAND.

Many farms are partly ruined by erosion. The farmers in the southern part of the State have suffered the greatest damage. There are many fields and parts of fields in southern Indiana that have been abandoned because they are so badly eroded that at present they can not be profitably farmed. Even grass will not grow on them because the top soil has all been washed off, and now briars and bushes are taking possession.

There is not much hilly land in Rush county. Most of it is tillable, and yet there are spots in this county unfit for farming purposes, and these should be planted with forest trees.

The only way to reclaim eroded land and bare spots unsuited for agriculture is to plant forest trees on it. Forest trees will stop the washing and soon grow into money. Remember that a gullied field on a farm depreciates the value of the remainder of the farm.

The kind of trees to plant would be black locust, ash or yellow poplar, and seedlings may be bought for $2.00 to $5.00 per thousand. The trees should be planted in the spring before the rush of spring work begins. If you have a gullied field decide now to save it. If you are not certain as to what kind of trees to plant or where to buy the seedlings to the best advantage, write the State forester, Indianapolis, Ind., for information and printed literature, who will be glad to assist you.

MAMMOTH CORN CROP.

(Munsey's Magazine.)

Such was the magnitude of the crop of corn raised by Joseph in Egypt, in the time of Pharaoh, that it was thought worthy of record in the Bible. We cannot tell accurately, as by measurement reduced to American bushels, what this harvest of Egyptian grain was. All that we know is that it was of such amplitude as to amaze the rulers of Egypt, and make the country the commercial master of the ancient world.

Yet it was undoubtedly much smaller than the harvest of Indiana corn, or maize, which the American farmers secured in the early autumn of 1910. That is estimated, in round numbers, at 3,121,000,000 bushels. Curiosity enough, the number of bushels of Indian corn harvested by the farmers of America is approximately equivalent to the number of dollars in actual circulation throughout the United States. That is to say, if it were necessary to buy outright the corn crop of last autumn, and to pay for it in cash at the rate of one dollar a bushel, then, in order to do this, there would be needed every dollar of money now in circulation.

FISHES THAT GO AFLOAT.

(Technical World Magazine.)

In far-off Eastern seas there is a wonderful isle, called Ceram, where the sea-beach is alive and crawls, where the trees have roots that grow in the air, and where the fishes come out of the ocean to climb the trees of the jungle along shore.

This is not a fairy story. Almost the first actual object that met the eyes of David G. Fairchild of the United States Agricultural Department upon landing in this strange place, on a recent visit there, was a species of fig tree whose roots start out of its trunk at a distance of eight to ten feet above the ground, and then grow downward to meet the marshy soil in the form of flying buttresses. These trees are fifty to sixty feet in height; their leaves look like the leaves of the rubber plant, and their juice is milky white like that of the milkweed.

"This tree," says Mr. Fairchild, "grows so near the seashore that a species of climbing fish crawls up the roots, sometimes to a distance of thirty or forty feet. When we landed on the island, there were hundreds of these fish jumping around on the sand and climbing the roots of such trees as this, hunting for insects."

But this was by no means all. A greater marvel was still to come. Mr. Fairchild goes on to say:

"As we set foot on this coast of wonders, I turned in amazement to my companion, and said, 'Why, Mr. Lathrop, the sea-beach is running away!'" It is no exaggeration to say that the beach was alive with hermit crabs. They seemed as numerous as the sands of the sea, and were of the same color. Their shells ranged in size from a pin's head to that of a horse chestnut, and they were in constant motion, thousands upon thousands of them, crawling up and down the blades of grass, and swarming over the trunks of the trees along the edge of the jungle."

THE KAISER'S PALACES.

(Munsey's Magazine.)

The number of the German Kaiser's palaces is largely due to the fact that the Prussian monarchy has absorbed many minor German states, including the Kingdom of Hanover, the Duchy of Nassau, and the Electorate of Hesse-Cassel. All the palaces and castles of the rulers of these states thus passed into the possession of the reigning house of Prussia, as it was considered injudicious either to destroy or to sell them, for fear of impairing the popularity of Hohenzollern rule. Thus it is that the emperor is burdened with the possession of more than three-score residences, some of which he has never even seen, and many of which are totally unsuited for royal habitation. Although their maintenance entails a heavy drain upon his exchequer, they cannot, for political reasons, be either sold or leased.
